Split Shifts Eyed At BHHS In Fall

Double sessions at senior high school are under consideration again in the Benton Harbor school district.

This was disclosed as a result of a scheduled meeting this afternoon of high school faculty, the superintendent and representatives of the board of education.

The split shift question is expected to be aired along with other matters the faculty wants to present to the board and administration.

REJECTED EARLIER

Double sessions, with half the student body going to school in the morning and the rest in the afternoon, were proposed two years ago as a means of relieving overcrowding. They were rejected by the board of education after a series of public meetings.

As a result, all ninth graders were withdrawn from the high school and some seventh graders were retained at elementary schools instead of going to junior high.

The board has again taken up the question after some seventh grade parents complained their children weren't getting a full junior high education. It would mean that all ninth graders would go to senior high and seventh graders to a junior high.

Dr. Mark E. Lewis, superintendent, said he and Lester Page, president of the board of education, would attend the meeting today. Dr. Lewis did not elaborate on the matters to

Arrest Two In 'Wake' Of Funeral

Two men in a car following a funeral procession through Coloma were arrested yesterday by Berrien county Sheriff's Deputy Fred Reeves, Jr.

Driver Kenneth Ryther, 59, of 159 Walnut street, Coloma, was charged with driving under the influence of liquor and with no operator's license.

A companion, Charles L. Holder, 46, of Coloma, was arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge.

Reeves said the two were not part of the procession.

Model, 21, Will Wed Executive, 44

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Kelly Harmon, 21, honey-blond daughter of sportscaster and former University of Michigan football great Tom Harmon, is engaged to marry John Z. DeLorean 44, a General Motors Corp. vice president in Detroit, her parents said Wednesday.

DeLorean, who lives in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., is general manager of the Chevrolet Division.

Miss Harmon said DeLorean gave her a "beautiful" diamond ring on Feb. 7 in Palm Beach, Fla.

"We're all very happy about the engagement," said Mrs. Harmon, a former Hollywood starlet.

She said her daughter and DeLorean met at a dinner party in nearby Brentwood about eight months ago. DeLorean is a family friend.

A spring wedding is planned. DeLorean recently was divorced by his first wife after 15 years of marriage. He was ordered to pay $375,000 in alimony in the next 15 years.

Harmon, an All-American halfback at Michigan in the early 1940s is a radio sportscaster for the American Broadcasting Co.

Miss Harmon, who attended the University of Colorado at Boulder, majoring in art and music, has been working as a model in Hollywood.

Her sister, Kristin, 24, is married to singer Ricky Nelson.

Negro Sells 'KKK' Signs

DETROIT (AP) — A black businessman in Detroit has struck a bonanza with KKK bumper strips.

The letters, though, stand for three assassinated leaders, John F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy.

The bumper strips are being marketed by Earlhel Green, 26, a Savannah, Ga. native. Green has already sold 3,000 of the stickers at 35 cents apiece and has ordered 10,000 more printed.

He says he was "struck by the coincidence that the slain men's initials should be the same as those of the Ku Klux Klan."

Policemen Are Waiting In Building

11 Arrested For Trespass At Ypsilanti

YPSILANTI (AP) — Sheriff's deputies today surprised a number of youths attempting to take over the administration building at Eastern Michigan University, arresting at least 11 persons.

Six plainclothes officers of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department spent the night in the building on a stakeout and arrested the youths after they had chained the doors shut at all three main entrances.

The arrests capped a march on the building by some 100 to 125 students, mostly Negroes. Police said many entered the building but were dispersed after the arrests and began marching around the campus.

Officers said nine of those arrested were Negroes and two were white.

The black students had planned to present a list of grievances to EMD President Harold Sponberg, students said.

Some 75 police and sheriff's officers went to the EMU campus.

TRESSPASS CHARGES

Those arrested were booked on trespass charges, sheriff's deputies said.

Demands by the Negro students included creation of an Afro-American center plus institution of studies of pertaining to black students in the fields of sociology, psychology and business.

The plan to march and seize the administration building was described by university officials as a "poorly kept secret" on campus. Sheriff's men, forewarned, set up the stakeout in anticipation of the demonstration.

Other demands listed by the group, variously called the Black Students association and the Whig Student Coalition, were for institution of a Malcolm X cultural center and for total amnesty for all involved.

The students apparently planned their takeover well in advance, as they arrived at the building with a tote bag full of chains and locks for the building entrances.

A spokesman for the group said "we will not initiate any violence," but that "our time has come."

"The black said"

An estimated 100 black students carried their march to the home of EMU President Harold Sponberg and demanded to meet with him to present a list of grievances and demands. The group chanted, "The revolution has come. Time to pick up your gun." They were halted at Sponberg's house by a force of police and sheriff's men carrying riot weapons.

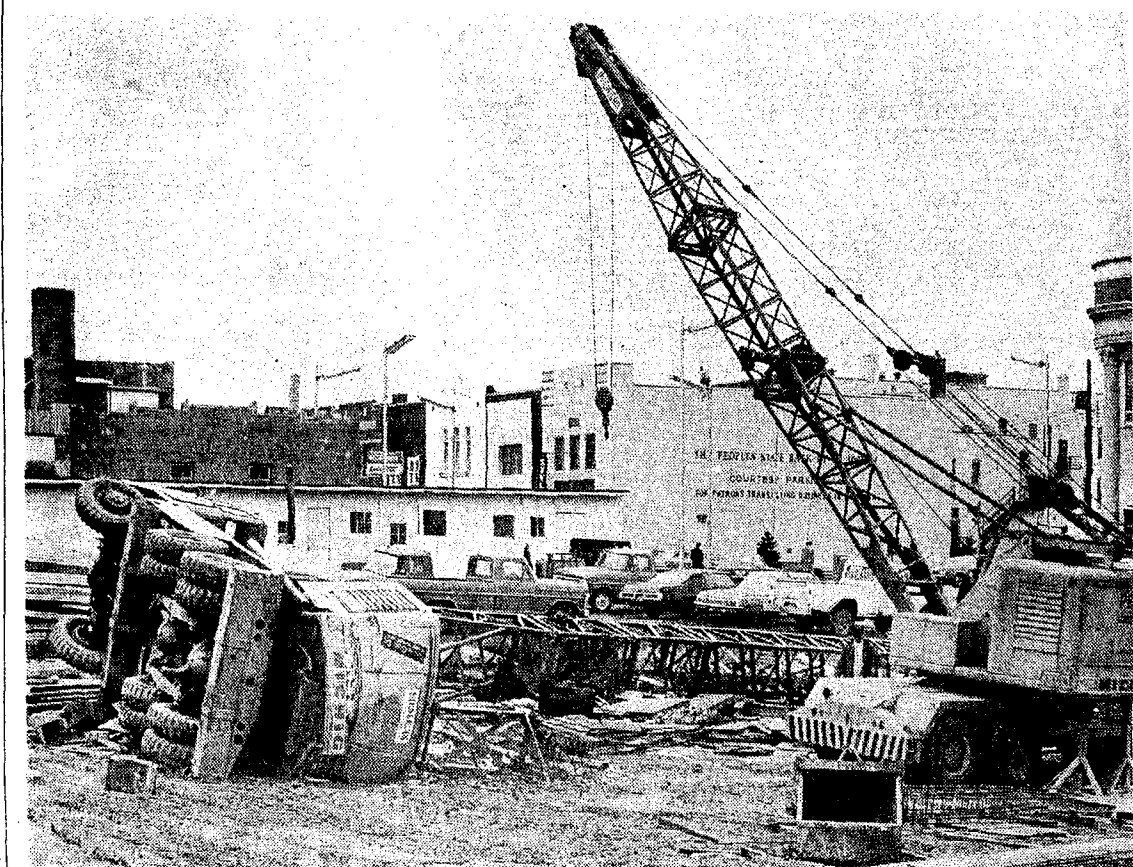

Shortly afterward, spokesmen said the students agreed to name a three-man committee to meet with the EMU president later today.

Senate Delays Action On Antiriot Measure

By JACQUELINE KORONA

LANSING (AP) — The Senate Wednesday delayed action on a controversial antiriot measure some members say will help maintain "peace in our streets" and others contend could create "chaos."

Put off for one week was action on a proposal that would authorize local units of government to empower their chief executives to declare states of emergency in times of civil disorder.

Former Gov. George Romney vetoed a similar measure last year after it won approval in both houses of the Legislature.

Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, chief sponsor of the bill, had offered a substitute measure he said would be "more acceptable and more palatable" to opponents. No vote was taken on the substitute.

SECOND PROPOSAL

Kuhn said his second proposal provided that there would be no time at which the governor could not intervene and rescind a local order.

A second "more acceptable" provision, Kuhn said, provided that nonresidents of the community in which a state of emergency had been declared would not be arrested or prosecuted for violation of a curfew "without first being given a reasonable opportunity to continue through or otherwise leave the area which is under a state of emergency."

Opponents argued that the Michigan State Police and executive office had fought the first proposal, but had not yet announced their decisions on the substitute.

"This has not been cleared through the attorney general's office," said Sen. Coleman Young D-Detroit. "The State Police and the governor haven't given their official reactions."

"I don't know what the hurry is," he said. Young attempted to return the proposal to committee for further action, but agreed to the second motion for postponement.

Sen. Harry Demasco, R-Battle Creek, objected to language in the bill that would allow "1,500 units of government to enact 1,500 different orders."

"If you want chaos, enact this," he said, suggesting that legislation might instead set up a standard for local emergency action.

GRANT TO WIDOW

The Senate passed a House-approved measure granting $2,604 to Mrs. Lenora Davis, widow of the late Rep. Charles Davis, R-Onondaga, who died shortly before the November election.

After some members expressed "serious reservations" over the wisdom of a mock legislative session set for tonight at Port Huron, the Senate passed a resolution commending the Port Huron-Marysville Chamber of Commerce for coming up with the idea.

"Personally I think it's going to be somewhat of a flop," said Sen. Robert Vanderlaan, R-Grand Rapids. "But we're in a position where there is only one honorable way out."

Vanderlaan, whose Senate business committee reported the resolution out, recommended its passage.

Legislators had criticized plans for the session, saying it could set "a very dangerous precedent."

"We don't even have enough time for all the meetings we have in Lansing," said Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford.

By JAMES PHILLIPS

LANSING (AP) — The House passed Wednesday a bill authorizing construction of a two-story addition to the State Capitol at a cost estimated at $385,000.

By a 64-36 vote, largely along party lines, the lower chamber gave its stamp of approval for the annex and sent the measure to the Senate.

Critics said the $385,000 cost estimate was low and that the structure probably would cost at least $500,000.

"Unless we're going to put up a crackerbox, I will eat my shirt on Main Street if we get any estimates near it (the proposed figure)," said Rep. Raymond J. Smit, R-Ann Arbor.

OFFICE SPACE

House Speaker William Ryan said the addition was for extra office space, adding that many legislators' offices were on the fourth floor of the Capitol. He added that construction would begin July 1 if the Senate approved the resolution.

Rep. James Del Rio, D-Detroit, said the fire marshal has condemned the fourth floor of the Capitol as a fire trap. He predicted that 85 to 90 per cent of the occupants on the fourth floor would perish if fire swept through the Capitol.

Rep. Clifford Smart, R-Walled Lake, pointed out that five floors of the Mason Building were unoccupied and that perhaps legislators could find offices and committee rooms in vacant state structures located in Lansing.

However, Ryan said it was necessary for the legislators to be grouped compactly if they were to efficiently conduct their business.

In other action, the House amended and passed a resolution to accelerate Public Service Commission action on pending utility rate proposals.

The amendment authorizes up to $110,000 to be spent by July 1 for more employees or to hire accounting firms to review rate cases.

CHIDES GOVERNOR

The House Policy Committee also reported out a resolution aimed at Gov. William Milliken who, some members said, has given his legislative proposals to the press before presenting them to the Legislature.

The resolution calls for forwarding "serious requests for legislative action to House and Senate members well in advance of any disclosure of the content of such legislative proposals to the press."

"We don't tell the governor in advance what we're going to do," said Rep. Dale Kildee, D-Flint. "I don't see why the governor should have to consult us first."

The resolution was expected to be voted on today.

Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, criticized Milliken in a speech on the House floor. O'Brien said the governor would be infringing on the legislative process if he established another department by executive order.

Milliken said Tuesday he would study the possibility of creating an Urban Affairs Department before deciding what action to take.

Strangled By Good Business

Under prodding by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the New York Stock Exchange and other markets report a slight easing in the paperwork snarl which of late has turned an orderly business process into a chaos resembling Dante's famous engravings of what hell is supposed to be like.

Last year the Exchange dropped back to a four-day week as an experiment in giving its member brokerage firms a chance to catch up to the paper flood.

This year the Exchange returned to its Monday through Friday routine but lopped an hour of trading from each day.

The confusion has abated a trifle, but no one cares to predict when the four-day closing rule will return. This is a requirement for brokers to settle accounts between their clients within 96 hours.

Other frustrations continue pretty much in full force and effect, as the lawyers might pun.

Dividends go to the wrong persons, traders are receiving stock they never ordered, and other traders are failing to deliver stocks they put on sales orders.

Totally, the situation parallels that of a merchant advertising a sale and having his merchandise still in its packing cases down in the basement when opening his doors.

The demon in the mess is the brokerage fraternity or its larger houses which account for most of the Exchange's volume.

They are not geared to handle the prosperity flood sweeping down upon them.

Twenty years ago the Exchange counted it as a big day if two to three million shares were traded.

Lately this volume has swirled and eddied in a range from twelve to fifteen million shares.

The brokers have hired more salesmen, but left the backroom help, the clerks who must sort and process the sales and purchases, at the earlier level.

Their thinking is that a salesman can produce a profit but that a clerk is simply an expense to be absorbed.

Levered by the SEC and customer complaints, the brokers are finally scrambling about for this clerical help.

It is in short supply. This means the clerks must devote precious time to instruct trainees in the intricacies of the business. Temporarily, at least, this back room expansion merely adds to the paperwork glut.

The difficulty is made to order for some outfits which are banking their operations on their customers' money.

This threat to the trade has stirred the Exchange's board of governors to threaten disciplinary action either by temporary or outright suspension of trading privileges. Spectres of the scandal in warehouse receipts for non-existent salad oil hover uncomfortably close.

Some smaller firms have merged as a method of balancing up the clerk personnel cost problem and there is vague talk of computerizing the business eventually.

All investors, be they bulls or bears, putters or callers, wish the Exchanges well.

At the moment the wish has the additional fervency for the brokers to modernize their paperwork procedures.

General Suharto and his "Pioneers of the New Order"—as he calls the new government—face the urgent problem of bringing their country back from the brink of bankruptcy and stabilizing the economy.

The country he rules is the largest archipelago in the world and one of the most fertile and mineral-laden.

Suharto, a political moderate, came to power in 1965 when his forces crushed a Communist coup d'etat and he set up a military junta. Sukarno was president at that time and remained in nominal authority until March 1967, when Suharto formally succeeded him as chief executive.

The second son among eleven children of Notoredjo, a trader and a Muslim divine, Suharto was born in 1921 in Sedajugedean, Java. In keeping with Javanese custom, he uses only his given name, without a surname.

In high school, he played on the soccer team. After graduation, he joined the Dutch colonial army. When the Japanese occupation of his country ended in 1945, the East Indian Nationalist movement, headed by Sukarno, declared the independence of the Dutch colony.

The independent Republic of Indonesia, with Sukarno as its president, became a reality on August 15, 1950, and it was admitted to the United Nations on Sept. 29, 1950.

Sukarno in the early 1960s, took a leftward course and, in 1965, he seized and nationalized all foreign-owned enterprises in Indonesia.

In 1965, Suharto and his forces suppressed a Communist coup and power of Sukarno was whittled away.

Since he became president, Suharto has signed a peaceful agreement with Malaysia, fought inflation by tightening credit and has cracked down on graft and the complicity of corrupt military and civilian authorities in smuggling.

DR. COLEMAN

..And Speaking
Of Your Health

In a recent column I spoke of the advantages of knowing the simple rules of first aid. I said then that I was going to outline the basic principles of artificial respiration.

The prime purpose of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is to force the rescuer's breath and his oxygen into the victim's lungs until he again begins to breathe. Whenever possible immediately send for professional help, but do not delay starting this lifesaving technique.

1) Place the victim on his back and loosen his tie, belt and any other constrictions.

2) Tilt the victim's head back as far as possible and pull the jaw upward.

3) Open the mouth, whenever possible, to be sure that the victim's tongue has not fallen back into the throat. If the jaws are rigid separate the lips because even then the rescuer's air can go between the victim's teeth and into the lungs.

4) Take a deep breath and place your mouth securely over the victim's mouth and forcefully blow your lifesaving breath into him. Repeat this cycle but do not overbreathe yourself by taking too deep a breath or hurriedly breathing faster than normal. This may make you dizzy and may interrupt your lifesaving help.

5) Be sure that there is no leakage of air through the victim's nose. This can be done by pinching the nostrils together and blowing directly into his mouth.

Covering his mouth with a handkerchief does not interfere with the free flow of breath and makes it more bearable for the rescuer. With a child both the nose and the mouth can be covered by your mouth thus preventing leakage of valuable air.

6) Blow rhythmically and regularly about twelve to eighteen times a minute for an adult. For a child, blow about twenty times a minute and more gently. Whenever possible avoid personal exhaustion by getting another person to take over. They can be shown the method very quickly.

7) Don't be discouraged if the victim does not begin to breathe quickly. Continue this method until professional help arrives.

8) If the victim has stopped breathing because his unconsciousness was due to an electric shock, be certain that he is no longer in contact with any live wires. If he is, for your own safety and his, remove the wires first with a wooden stick or rubber implement.

The most important points again are to send for help but don't delay starting artificial respiration. Tilt the head far backward, lift the jaw upward and begin to breathe into the victim's mouth, being sure that there is no leakage from the nose. Adults can teach youngsters how to do this and actually make a very instructive evening in planning for the possibility of saving a life.

Opening lead — nine of hearts.

The problem of entries can plague declarer in the play of many hands. Inadequate communication from one hand to the other may break a contract that could otherwise be made. It naturally follows that in hands where communication is important, declarer must do everything possible to create additional entries to the hand that needs them.

Take this deal where South is in seven clubs. On the surface it would seem that declarer needs a successful diamond finesse to make the contract. However, further study reveals that a diamond finesse may not be necessary if the East-West cards are favorably divided.

Declarer consequently plans from the start to exhaust other possibilities before staking the outcome of the hand on a diamond finesse.

He starts by winning the heart lead with the jack, being careful to drop his ten on it. He then ruffs a low spade high. The deuce of clubs to the eight is followed by another spade ruff high. After leading the five of clubs to the nine, declarer ruffs the third round of spades.

The purpose of these ruffs is to try to drop the ace of spades. Felling the ace on the first, second or third spade lead would render it unnecessary to risk a diamond finesse.

The ace not having appeared, declarer cashes the ace of hearts, and leads the queen to dummy's king. He next trumps the ten of spades, finally felling the ace.

The deuce of hearts, so carefully preserved from the start, provides an entry to dummy's six, and the queen of diamonds is then discarded on the king of spades.

Note that the diamond finesse is held in reserve in case the spades misbehave, and note also that dropping the ten of hearts on the jack is absolutely essential to creating an extra entry to dummy.

It takes a lot of shock residents in the neighborhood of the U. of California campus in Berkeley these days. A prof emerged from the campus swimming pool recently to discover that some miscreant had hooked his shoes and socks from his locker. The weather was balmy, so he decided he could walk barefoot to the nearest shoe store, attired in his regular suit, shirt, and tie. Nobody, including the shoe store clerk, gave him a second glance. The clerk, in fact, after fitting him with shoes and socks, inquired casually, "Care to wear them, sir, or shall I wrap them up?"

"There are no such things as decorum and good manners in society any longer," wailed a Boston hostess recently. "At my last dinner party, one of my guests launched forth on a decidedly off-color story and I told them he could just get his hat and leave my house."

"Good for you," enthused her even more straight-laced friend. "What happened?"

"All my other guests went with him," wailed the hostess, "to hear the rest of the story."

Intelsat Compact

Space communications by satellite, less than seven years old, is about to become old hat. The Russians, Poles, Czechs, Hungarians, Bulgarians, even the Mongolians, are sending high level delegations to Washington for a conference aiming at a permanent space satellite system for communications.

The International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium, INTELSAT for short, is expected to have 65 members attending a month long conference opening Monday at Washington on establishing a permanent world communications satellite system.

Not all representatives will send delegates. San Marino, a pinprick on the map adjacent to Italy, is relying upon proxy representation. The Soviet Union and its Eastern European political satellites are coming as observers.

Bids have gone out to all nations belonging to the United Nations of U.N. special agencies that have indicated they are "seriously interested" in becoming members of INTELSAT; but the mere fact of Soviet bloc attendance may mean a complete reversal of field, a willingness to join in ownership of the system.

This largest multi-national conference ever to be held in Washington will meet in the International Conference Hall of the U.S. Department of State. The aim is a single global communications system, as envisioned in the preamble to the 1962 Communications Satellite Act. Eight European nations, the United States, and the Vatican on Aug. 20, 1964 signed a compact forming INTELSAT.

The space breakers were Telstar, launched on July 10, 1962, and Telstar, launched in May 1963. Both are now dead birds, though still in orbit.

Early Bird, launched in April 1965 by the Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT), was the world's first full time commercial satellite. Retired after more than four years of continuous service, Early Bird remains over the Atlantic as a spare in orbit.

Five commercial communications satellites are now in orbit furnishing service across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Transatlantic communications are carried by the INTELSAT II Atlantic Two satellite, launched March 22, 1967, and the INTELSAT III Atlantic, launched Dec. 18, 1968. Providing service across the Pacific are INTELSAT II Pacific One satellite, launched Jan. 11, 1967, and INTELSAT II Pacific Two satellite, launched Sept. 27, 1967. Each of these satellites provides coverage north and south of the equator and has a capacity of 240 high-quality voice circuits or a TV channel. Supplementing the Pacific coverage is INTELSAT III, successfully launched on the morning of Feb. 5. This satellite has a capacity of 1,200 high-quality voice circuits or four TV channels.

A special committee of the National Research Council recommends that the government at least double its spending on satellite research to provide everyday benefits to man. Currently $100 million a year is spent on such research.

The Russians in the past contemptuously dismissed the INTELSAT network as a capitalist plaything. They have their own domestic network of communications by satellite. As many as half a dozen Molniya satellites have been launched.

Russia at a conference in Vienna in August 1968 made a big push for an Intersputnik satellite system, but the invasion of Czechoslovakia damped down what little Western enthusiasm there was for that. Russia may argue for Intersputnik again in Washington, at least in corridor discussion. If no forward movement develops in INTELSAT in Washington, in any event, no great harm will be done. The 1964 agreement is valid until replaced.

HENRY CATHCART

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — There are opposing factions within the Nixon administration just as such factions have existed in other presidential administrations. The differing advice and recommendations usually result in compromises, or in postponements of actions. Sometimes one group emerges completely victorious with the opposing group's position completely rejected.

The process is not unusual, nor is it necessarily damaging. In fact, there have been numerous instances which can be cited to demonstrate that it is an integral part of the democratic process. But, like most other things, too much wrangling and too much delay can be harmful.

The factionalism within the Nixon administration has showed itself recently in two developments, each of which, by sheer coincidence, has involved the White House posture as it relates to the Negro minority.

The first concerns the President's task force on education. Because that task force said some true but hard things about Nixon's unpopularity with the Negro community, it has not been made public. Yet, when Nixon was asked a press conference question about black distrust, he responded in a disarmingly frank manner and alluded to the suppressed task force report's criticism of him.

Obviously Nixon's willingness to discuss the report can be taken to indicate that he was not concerned about concealing its critical contents. The question arises, therefore, as to who was interested in doing so and in what manner was the decision made to withhold it from the public. One probable conclusion is that a faction within this circle of advisers was strong enough to suppress publication even though the President himself was unconcerned.

The other incident concerns pending appointments to three vacancies on the Washington City Council. There obviously is a lot of pulling and hauling which has delayed the presidential appointments, even though the action has been expected and publicly forecast for a number of days. Failure to act is becoming an embarrassment to some people at the White House, but the influence of each faction with the President is such that the delay has stretched out. While the issue is of no great consequence outside of Washington, the inability to reconcile the opposing views is tarnishing the Nixon image as a "doer" and is being used as an example of the degree to which Nixon can be stalemated by his own people.

Fairplain 8th Grade Spellers County's Best

Eighth grade spellers from week Wednesday and went Fairplain junior high school put home with the Cloverleaf Spelling contest trophy.

Eighth grade teams from six schools in Berrien county competed for the trophy in the Cloverleaf finals, held in the Watervliet high school auditorium.

Fairplain saved the trophy by winning, because Trinity Lutheran school of St. Joseph could have retired it by a victory. Trinity had won the contest two years in a row. The trophy is permanent property of the team that wins three years straight.

TRINITY IS CLOSE
Trinity, came close, tying for runnerup spot with Lafayette school, Benton township.

St. Joseph junior high and Johnson school, Benton township, tied for third, while Berrien Springs finished last among the finalists. All six teams qualified for the event yesterday by winning semi-final contests held last Wednesday at Coloma and Lafayette schools and at Andrews university.

Fairplain now has won the trophy three times, including two-straight victories in 1962-63. Coloma won the first event in 1961 and also won two straight in 1964-65. Berrien Springs won in 1966, with Trinity winning the past two years.

Contest chairman was Donald Spilger, principal of Coloma junior high school.

Goodwill Will Close Local Store

Not Enough Sales Given As Reason

The Twin Cities branch of Goodwill Industries of Southwestern Michigan will go out of business Saturday, March 1, for lack of patronage.

The announcement was made by Jasper F. Burt, chairman of the board of directors for the local branch. The store at Colfax avenue and Oak street, Benton Harbor, has been operating under auspices of the parent Goodwill Industries in Kalamazoo.

Burt said the decision to close the local store was primarily because it has not been able to develop a level of business sufficient to justify its maintenance.

A decline in the number of migrant workers in the area was cited as a factor in decreased sales. Business also has been down in the winter months. The store has stocked mainly donated clothing, although there are some furniture and household items.

"This reduction in sales," said Burt, "would appear to reflect a decreasing need for the type of service offered. It is with regret that we must take this action."

Goodwill Industries employ the physically handicapped. An average of 12 persons have been employed during the store's four years in Benton Harbor.

Burt said that continuance of the store as an independent Goodwill unit "would require a degree of local subsidy inconsistent with the policy and purposes of Goodwill."

However, Goodwill Industries could be re-established in the Twin Cities area in the future, based on need, financial support and full autonomy.

Water Pact Sessions Set In Lincoln

Harry Gast, Jr., Lincoln township supervisor, has announced two public information meetings will be held to discuss the proposed water service to the township.

The meetings will be held Saturday afternoon at 1:30 and Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Both will be in the township hall in Stevensville.

Gast said a public water supply will be available through the water service contract with the city of St. Joseph. Terms of the contract were worked out by representatives of St. Joseph, the townships of St. Joseph and Lincoln and the villages of Stevensville and Shoreham.

Each governmental body must take formal action to ratify the contract at individual meetings.

Gast said the Lincoln township board must make a decision on whether to enter the contract in the near future. He said interested persons are invited to attend these two meetings to become acquainted with the issue before the board takes any action.

Post Office Nomination Lists Void

Career Employees Get Big Edge In Nixon Formula

Benton Harbor acting postmaster George Westfield and other acting postmasters across the nation today faced an uphill battle to keep their jobs under new federal appointment procedures.

A spokesman for the Post Office department in Washington said each acting postmaster was being reviewed individually to determine if he would remain. A key requirement is previous postal experience.

The disclosure came after Postmaster General Winton M. Blount announced Wednesday that current Civil Service lists affecting 2,200 acting postmasters and 467 nominees for permanent appointment were being cancelled. Under the move the 2,667, including Westfield, will be subject to the new review.

NO DECISION YET

Howard Lewis, in the department's Public Information office, said no decision had been reached yet on Westfield's case. But he said the Feb. 14 removal of the acting postmaster in Grand Rapids was a result of the review process.

The new appointment procedures, the spokesman said, require creation of Regional nominating Boards for Post Offices in Benton Harbor's size bracket and a National Board to handle the nation's 400 large Post offices.

Two of the five-member boards will be from the Post office department. The other three will be representatives named by the American Arbitration Association, the Civil Service Commission for the area and a leading regional business school.

OPEN EXAMINATION

According to Lewis, career employees would be given first consideration. He said if no career employee could be found who qualified or who wanted the job, then the Regional or National Board would schedule an open examination.

The Boards would nominate to the Post office department which in turn would recommend to President Richard Nixon for nomination to Congress.

Also announced by Blount Wednesday was a major shakeup in the regional directors ranks. Only two of the existing 11 directors were being retained. The others were to be reassigned or retired. Two of the department's 13 regions are presently vacant.

C&O Declares Dividend Of $1

Municipal Offices Closing On Friday

Several area municipal and government offices have reported that they will not be open Friday in observance of Washington's birthday the following day.

Among those that will be closed tomorrow are St. Joseph city hall, the Social Security office, the Internal Revenue Service office, the Berrien county courthouse and the circuit and district courts.

The Benton Harbor and St. Joseph post offices reported that they will remain open Friday but will be closed on Saturday.

Local banks and savings and loan associations report that they will remain open until 6 p. m. Friday. The Benton Harbor municipal building will have regular business hours Friday.

The Benton township municipal building will be closed Friday.

Buchanan Man Escapes Police

Woman Companion Held In St. Joseph

A Buchanan man escaped from a moving St. Joseph police car last night while a woman companion held her hands over the eyes of patrolman Joseph Garski, who was taking them to the police station.

Garski reported the couple was under arrest on a charge of stealing three cartons of cigarettes from the National Food store, 815 Main street. They had been placed in the back seat of the patrol car.

He said a man identified as Larry Jones, 28, of route 1, Buchanan, escaped by rolling down a window of the patrol car, opening a door, and jumping out after Garski had been grabbed from behind by the woman, who put her hands over his face.

The officer stopped the car, freed himself and retained the woman in custody. She was identified as Ruth Elizabeth Vizzier, alias Fain, 27, route 1 Buchanan. Mrs. Vizzier was booked on charges of larceny in a building and assaulting a police officer. A five-year-old daughter accompanying her was turned over to a grandmother.

THEFT AT STORE
Police were informed of the theft by Donald Lester, assistant manager of the store, who said a woman had walked out with three cartons of cigarettes. Patrolman William Beaudette then stopped a car containing a man, woman and child on Niles avenue.

Patrolman Garski went to the scene with a clerk from the National store who viewed the woman. Jones and Mrs. Vizzier were then placed under arrest. Police said 12 cartons of cigarettes were found in the car which was impounded.

DRIVES TO BUCHANAN
Jones may have returned to Buchanan last night. Police reported a taxi driver told police he had picked up a fare on Niles avenue last night and drove him to Buchanan. The man had a patch over his eye.

A Langley avenue resident had reported earlier a man with a cut on the hand and forehead stopped at his house to call a taxi.

Police said Jones may have been cut while jumping out of the patrol car.

Some patrol cars have a wire screen between the driver and back seat passengers, but the one Garski was driving did not. Mrs. Vizzier was able to reach over the front seat and obscure Garski's vision. Rear door handles are removed on patrol cars to prevent opening from the inside.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL
PULLMAN — Mrs. Albert Rumpf has returned to her home on Lower Scott Lake, Pullman, from Bronson hospital in Kalamazoo.

Assistant Principal Is Named

VIRGIL MAY

Virgil May, Benton Harbor faculty member for six years, has been named assistant principal at Hull school, subject to confirmation by the board of education at its next meeting.

May, a Benton Harbor city commissioner, replaces Joseph Shurn who is now principal of Seely McCord school. May formerly taught at Hull and Bard schools, and for the past 18 months has been coordinator of the school district's outdoor education program.

His salary at Hull will be prorated from $11,600. May and his wife live at 616 Thresher avenue with their daughter, a high school sophomore. He is a trustee of Union Memorial AME church and a member of American Legion Post 410.

He has a BA degree from Lane college and is working on a masters degree in school administration from Western Michigan university.

SJ Firemen Answer Two Minor Calls

St. Joseph firemen checked an alarm at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph and extinguished a car fire yesterday.

A steam pipe burst in a mechanical equipment room of the new section of the hospital at 11:48 a.m. and set off the automatic alarm system. There was no damage.

Firemen extinguished a fire in the motor compartment of a car owned by Arnold Molter, route 6, Dowagiac, and parked in a lot behind the new Holiday inn now under construction. The only damage was to wiring and hoses. The alarm came in at 6: p.m. yesterday.

4-H Meeting

PULLMAN — Allegan County will meet Monday at the Pullman Congregational church beginning at 8 p.m. Miss Susan Reimink, group president, said final plans will be made for spring achievement.

Former Local Woman Hurt In Gas Disaster

A former Twin City area woman was among scores of persons injured by ammonia gas that spread through Crete, Neb., Tuesday morning after a train derailment. Eight persons were killed.

Hospitalized was Mrs. Conrad (Marie) Heier, 62. Her husband once ran a shoe repair shop in St. Joseph and was employed by Clark Equipment Co. here.

Meier saved himself from injury and his wife from further harm by wrapping their heads in wet towels and evacuating the area in a car. However, it took them 90 minutes to go five blocks because the streets were jammed with fleeing people. Meier telephoned news of the disaster to the home of his brother August Meyer, 3219 Townline road, Sodus township. Mrs. August Meyer said Conrad related that the atmosphere was so foggy with fumes that the only way they were able to get out of town was by following a snow bank along the side of the road.

Conrad reported that his wife seemed to be making satisfactory progress, although she had been in a weakened condition after two bouts with the flu this winter.

A 40,000 gallon tank car containing anhydrous ammonia was ruptured in the derailment of a 94-car Burlington route Denver-to-Chicago freight train. The tank car was on a siding. It was struck by the derailed cars.

The Meiers live several blocks from the railroad tracks in the southeast Nebraska community of 3,500.

Meier also has two other brothers and a sister living in the Twin Cities area: Henry John and Mrs. Lawrence Krieger. Conrad retains the German spelling of the family name, Meier, while other members use the Anglicized Meyer.

Sodus Farm Receives Centennial Marker

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

In Family Since 1865

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

A farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. William V. Collins at 3397 Naomi road, Sodus, has been designated a centennial farm by the Michigan Historical commission.

This means that the farm has remained in continuous possession of the same family for at least 100 years.

Collins and his brother, Ward Collins, who resides a quarter-mile away, paused briefly to comment on changes over the years. The farm, itself, is smaller — 19 acres compared to 40 acres when originally acquired by family descendants in April, 1865.

Located virtually inside Sodus village, the farm is almost a stone's throw from the Sodus township hall and new branch office of the First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan. The brothers said both these structures occupy part of the original acreage.

MANY TREES GONE
Also gone are many trees which once dominated the farm yard.

One thing remains unchanged through the years. Ward Collins pointed to the old frame home and said it's 101 years old. The home, he said, was built in early 1868.

In 1865, three years before the present home was built, the farm was acquired by the Collins' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Akright. Mr. Akright died in 1896, and his widow eventually married Milo Moore.

From Mrs. Moore, the farm passed to the Collins' parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Uzzell Collins. The present owners now use part of the 19 acres for growing fruit.

William Collins said that while he and his wife, Thelma, have no children of their own, he has four grown stepchildren, Max Russ of St. Joseph; Phillip Russ of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Gus Rosenbaum, route 2, Eau Claire; and Mrs. Joe Markuson of South Bend.

The familiar centennial farm marker, provided by the Consumers Power Co. and Detroit Edison Co., now stands in the Collins' front yard. The centennial farm program in Michigan was established in 1948, according to Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose department directs activities of the historical commission. Since then, Hare reported, certificates and markers have been presented to more than 2,500 farm owners.

To rank as a centennial farm, another factor is required besides continuous family ownership. The farm must be ten acres or more and have estimated sales of more than $50 a year. It may be less than ten acres, if its annual sales are at least $250.

Seek Five Mills For Five Years

$1,655,000 For Construction And Remodeling

BANGOR — Voters in the Bangor school district Monday will vote on separate proposals for a $1,655,000 bond issue for classroom expansion and improvements and the renewal of a five-mill operating tax levy. The five-mill operating levy would run for five years and succeeds a similar levy which expired last year.

The $1,655,000 raised from the sale of bonds would provide funds for a construction and remodeling program at the elementary and middle school levels if approved on Monday.

All registered voters may vote on the millage proposal, which would run from 1969 through 1973, but voters on the bond proposal must be property owners.

The bonds would run for 29 years and would need an increase in millage for debt retirement of 1.8 mills. The present millage rate for debt retirement is 6.6 mills and would be raised to 8.4 mills. This would increase the tax rate by $1.80. The present state on $1,000 state equalized valuation by $1.80. The present state equalized valuation of the district is $18,772,697.

At an interest rate of 5 1/2 percent for the sale of bonds the increase of 1.8 mills is necessary to meet the interest and principal payments that would be due each year for the proposed program and the existing 1966 and 1965 debt retirements. If the bonds are sold at a more favorable rate of interest, the total cost to the taxpayer would be reduced.

The bond proposal includes $732,000 for the construction of a new 14-room elementary school; $200,000 for the purchase and remodeling of the Sacred Heart Catholic school buildings; and $748,000 for remodeling and addition at the middle school.

COST BREAKDOWN
The cost of the new elementary school has been broken down as $684,000 for construction; $38,000 for furniture; and $10,000 for the site.

The cost for the Sacred Heart buildings, to be used for elementary classrooms, includes $145,000 for the purchase; $49,000 for remodeling; and $6,000 for furniture.

Plans at the middle school call for the demolition of the section constructed in 1902 at $15,000; rehabilitation of the wing built in 1929 for $112,400; remodeling of the former agriculture building at $13,800; construction of 10 additional rooms for $535,100; furniture for $67,200; and land at $3,500.

SECOND PHASE
The classroom improvements to be voted on Monday are termed the second phase of a long-range building program by STATE LINE CRASH: Framed against a Welcome to Michigan sign, this crash last night on Indiana highway 39 hospitalized two persons, both drivers. Mrs. Carmalee Tanksley, 26, of 2727 Lubke road, New Buffalo, was reported in good condition at Pine Lake hospital, LaPorte, Ind. Driver of camper vehicle, Claude J. district officials. The first phase was the new senior high school and six-room addition to the elementary building completed last year, which were financed by a $1,175,000 bond issue. The third phase would be an addition to the high school at a future date.

School officials have said the need for the expansion and improvements is necessary because of the increasing enrollments in the district. Officials said in the period from 1963-64 to the current year, the number of elementary students has increased from 786 to 1,153 with an estimated 1,179 elementary pupils expected by 1973-74.

On the junior high level, there were 200 students enrolled in 1963-64. There are now 295 junior high students with an estimated figure of 476 by 1973-74. Senior high students totaled 443 to 1963-64. The number has increased to 482 this year and 695 are expected by 1973-74.

With estimated figures, school officials said the number of students in the Bangor district will increase by 921 students in the ten-year period from 1963-64 to 1973-74.

Last August, district voters defeated a $580,000 bond issue to construct a new elementary building.

The board of education, in deciding to submit a more comprehensive program to the voters on Monday, said the actual cost of the proposal is $1,680,000. They said with a bond issue of $1,655,000 they felt the remaining $25,000 needed could be acquired by investing some of the income from the bond sales.

Half Million For Berrien Roads

Four Major Construction Projects This Year

Berrien county will spend approximately $509,000 for primary road construction this year, according to estimates by Berrien Road Commission Engineer-Manager Heath Calvin.

Some $310,000 of this is the county's share in widening M-139 in Benton township. The balance, nearly $200,000, will go for three out-county paving or paving preparation jobs and a host of minor projects.

Last year the county spent some $280,000 on primary roads while banking against big expenditures this year, Calvin said.

BIG PROJECTS

Big projects besides M-139 this year are paving portions of Snow road near Berrien Springs and Coloma road in Hagar township, and grading and graveling a portion of 40-year-old Walton road in Oronoko township.

At the expense of the Northwest Berrien county landfill authority, the road commission also is expected to let a contract to pave Crystal avenue from Red Arrow highway north to Smallidge road and west on Smallidge to the landfill near the Twin cities airport. Total length is just under a mile.

The Snow road job will pave a two-lane section totaling 2.3 miles from Berrien Springs to Red Bud trail. It was graded and gravelled for all but a short stretch in 1968.

The Coloma job will pave a two-lane section totaling 1.6 miles from US-33 to Riverside. The road grade will also be corrected to remove "dips."

WALTON ROAD

The Walton road project will grade and gravel a 3.1-mile stretch from the new Walton road bridge northeast to near Winn road, in preparation for paving in 1970.

Bids for most of these projects will be let sometime in April.

Road commission officials also will meet this spring with township boards to set the 1969 secondary road improvement budget, which often is a quarter-million dollars or more. Expenditures depend on the township's ability to pay.

The road commission shares some costs and last year improvements were tabbed at $440,000, Calvin said.

VALUE $1,690 Three Coats Are Stolen At Buchanan

BUCHANAN — City police are investigating the theft of three coats valued at $1,690 taken from Armand's restaurant on Red Bud Trail North Wednesday night.

The coats included a full-length brown heavier coat owned by Mrs. J. C. Wood, 1929 Niles-Buchanan road, Niles, and valued at $1,500; a man's camel hair topcoat and hat owned by Ralph C. Smith, 1218 Grant street, Niles; and a woman's coat valued at between $30 and $40, with no owner listed by police.

Officers said the coats were taken sometime between 9:30 p. m. Wednesday at 12:10 a. m. today from a coat rack just inside the east entrance. The theft was reported by an employee, Miss Pauline Taylor, of Buchanan.

They'll Get $850,000 On Monday

New Buffalo Water Project Funds Arriving

NEW BUFFALO — New Buffalo city officials should be wide awake next Monday morning.

They'll be handed a check for $850,000 and told to spend it to improve their water system. The check will be presented by a representative of the U.S. Department of Agriculture during a brief ceremony at 11 a. m. Monday, in city hall here.

The $850,000 and another $232,000 the city will raise through the sale of general obligation bonds, will pay for the Lake Michigan water intake system, costing a total of $1,082,000.

New Buffalo City Atty. Stephen Roumell, who spearheaded the project, said construction will begin as soon as possible, and completion is anticipated by next October. He said preliminary work actually is underway now.

The system will include a pump to bring in the lake water, a filtration plant and a 300,000-gallon tank to store it. The new system will replace two large wells that now supply the city's water needs.

The money, however, must be repaid and this will take a total of 30 years.

FEDERAL BONDS

The $850,000 will be repaid over 30 years in revenue bonds picked up by the federal government. These bonds carry an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent. The $232,000 in general obligation bonds are to be repaid over a 20-year period. They carry a 5 1/2 per cent interest rate.

Payments of both are expected to be made from water revenue. However, Roumell said a city tax could be levied if needed, to pay the obligation bonds, because they are backed by the full faith of the city.

Both sets of bonds were sold last Dec. 30, after approval by the Michigan Municipal Finance commission.

Roumell said the system will be operated at first to meet the needs of the city. He emphasized that as area demands increase, the system can be expanded to supply water to the southwestern end of Berrien county—to Three Oaks, Chikaming township, Grand Beach and Michiana.

ADDITIONAL PUMPS

Expansion of the system can be achieved by adding more pumps, said Roumell, adding that the filtration plant is designed to meet future needs. He said the plant can meet a potential need of up to three million gallons of water a day.

Asked why the U.S. Department of Agriculture is supplying the money, Roumell said:

"You wouldn't believe this, but for about two years, I worked for this thing (intake system), went to Chicago and got bumped from one government agency to another. Then, all at once, we got the support from the Agriculture department. The department office (in the Agriculture department) is the Farm Home administration."

New Buffalo officials expected to attend the check presentation ceremony include Mayor Anton Carson, City Manager Andrew Krycka, members of the city council and Roumell.

Commenting on the ceremony, Roumell said: "I've seen a check for about $400,000. But, I've sure never seen one for $850,000."

Concert Monday At Lawrence

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence Lions club will sponsor a concert by the Vagabonds, a musical group from Western Michigan university, on Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Proceeds from the concert will be used to sponsor a visit of the Lions Sightmobile in Lawrence, according to William Thomas, publicity chairman.

A new and better equipped Sightmobile will be used by 11 Lions clubs in the Southwestern Michigan district. A special feature of the Sightmobile is a testing section for pre-schoolers.

Citizens Can Voice Opinions

State Rep. Ray C. Mittan is sampling the sentiments of his constituents by mailing 5,000 questionnaires on legislative matters to 44th District residents.

The questionnaire covers crucial and controversial subjects before the Legislature. Sections are on education, crime, the state capital building, highways, birth control and abortion, dog racing, bingo and a state lottery.

"I am hopeful the return will be large enough to obtain a cross-section opinion on some of the real problems facing the Legislature this session," said Mittan.

Among the education questions are aid to parochial schools, more state money for K-12, more money for colleges, year-round school operation.

Crime questions cover wire tapping, responsibility of parents for acts of vandalism by their children, compulsory registration of all firearms.

Mittan also wants to know if his constituents want to build a new capitol building or restore the old one, which according to estimates would cost more than a new one.

He also asks constituents to let him if they want their names removed from his legislative memo mailing list.

Decatur Man Finishes Aerospace Pilot School

Assigned To Philippines For Further Training

DECATUR — Capt. James W. Thar, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Thar, route 2, Decatur, is moving up through the ranks of this nation's astronaut training program.

The elder Thars recently returned from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., where their son was graduated from one of the most exclusive flying schools in the world, The U.S. Air Force Aerospace Research Pilot School.

Capt. Thar, one of 16 men chosen to attend the school, began the 12-month rugged experimental test and space research pilot training in January of 1968. The school prepares graduates for assignments in two fields, manned space programs and experimental test pilot programs.

Capt. Thar has now been assigned to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines, where he will undergo two years of extensive training in the manned space program. A graduate of Dowagiac high school and Michigan State university, Capt. Thar entered the Air Force in 1959. He has served all over the world and holds the Distinguished Flying Cross for service in Vietnam, where he completed more than 100 in-country sorties and 30 out of the country.

Prior to attending the aerospace school, Capt. Thar was an instructor pilot at Williams Air Force Base, Ariz.

The aerospace school included 40 course subjects, four hours each day flying the F-104, and spending time in a space flight simulator, providing the pilot with a realistic sense of rocket launching and a sense of orbiting the earth.

Capt. Thar will be joined by his wife, the former Bonnie Macfing of Kalamazoo, and their four children, in the Philippines.

Andrews Slates Amateur Hour Saturday Night

Catnip Latest Hippy Craze?

Processor At Cassopolis Still Skeptical

First it was banana peels, now the latest in the succession of poor man's psychodelia has reportedly become, all of things, catnip.

In a story in yesterday's Wall Street Journal on the subject, Ed Lowe, president of Lowe's Inc., Cassopolis Processors of catnip, was quoted as saying: "It sounds like it has great possibilities. Maybe it's a new outlet for the stuff."

Lowe told this newspaper that the facetious remark has brought a host of calls from persons throughout the country wanting to buy stock in his company. The firm makes products for the care and enjoyment of cats.

"I had one fellow call from Philadelphia," he said. "I kept telling him we didn't sell stock, until finally he asked me, 'Well, where can I find a catnip company that will sell me some stock?'"

Lowe says that if there are newly found extra-curricular uses for catnip, his sales don't reflect it.

JUST SIDELIGHT

"We only make a few tons of catnip a year as a sidelight to our main product, Kitty Litter." But our catnip sales are the same as they have always been," he said. According to the Journal, catfood stores are reporting some customers "buying all the catnip in sight."

One woman reported that she had to take her cat off catnip because he was apparently taking "trips" on the stuff.

"Boots would just go wild," she said.

One pet store owner in Haight Ashbury reported doing a brisk business in catnip among non-pet-owning hippies.

WILD PLANT

Catnip is a wild plant of the mint family, with strongly scented, velvety, heart shaped leaves. It grows about two feet tall, is plentiful and has become a roadside weed.

Lowe reportedly tried to cultivate it, failed, and now depends on wild catnip, which he said are picked by youngsters and older women.

"I've always wondered why these little old ladies come in here so bouncy and happy. Maybe they've been trying it," he said.
